

Case Study: American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA) ◀

Objective:

Restoring the new space provided an opportunity to incorporate the organization's mission and main constituency – the “American Immigrant” into the design.

Client: American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA), Washington DC

Product: Custom Workstations with Laminate Panels, Casegoods & Ready Tables

Project Scope:
 96 Workstations
 2 Meeting Rooms

Solution: Demonstrate our exceptional custom capabilities to create a welcoming space with built-in workstations, precision fitted to accommodate a variety of site conditions with the necessary functionality to satisfy day-to-day activities.

Results: Well-designed, fully-outfitted workstations with much needed storage equipped with tailored features adaptable to the unique space and work styles. Meeting areas are flexible and accommodate a range of multi-purpose uses. Elegant, timeless furnishings ensure that the new space will be aesthetically appealing years from now.

Benefits: Aesthetic and functional requirements perfectly met. Staff is comfortable and energized by their new workspace. Successfully executed the same superior aesthetic quality as millwork at a manageable cost.

Design by: COPILCA